What is HELP?
The Hospital Elder Life Program (HELP) at Clara Maass Medical Center aims to provide extra attention and care to senior citizens admitted to the hospital.

The goals of the program is to:
- To maintain physical and cognitive functioning throughout hospitalization
- To maximize independence at discharge
- To assist with the transition from hospital to home
- To prevent unplanned readmissions

Whether it’s reading the newspaper together, engaging in conversation, providing company during a meal or taking walks, volunteers can make a significant impact in the mental, social and physical health of elderly patients at Clara Maass Medical Center.

Clara Maass Medical Center was able to launch the HELP program through a generous grant from The Healthcare Foundation of New Jersey.

Meet the Coordinator
Dhyana Velez, RN-BC is the Geriatric Coordinator for the Elder Life Program at Clara Maass Medical Center. She is responsible for checking on our patients to see if they are having challenges such as signs of confusion, change in behavior, or any type of decline that has been observed since being admitted.

Additionally, she enrolls elderly patients who meet our criteria into the HELP program. Those patients then receive ongoing attention to keep them engaged and feeling comfortable during their hospital stay.

Are you interested in being part of our team?
The HELP program has been recognized for volunteer excellence by the American Hospital Association.
