

Saint Peter's

UNIVERSITY

The Campus Kitchen and Food Pantry of Saint Peter's University has partnered with RWJBH over the last 5 years. Our partnership with RWJBH has truly improved the health and lives of people in Jersey City. Their support through the State-appropriated funds allows our organization to combat food insecurity in our community. It is invaluable to have a partner that genuinely cares about their community and show it through their goals and their actions.

In our 5-year partnership, RWJBH has donated 8285 pounds of food to our Campus Kitchen, which has gone directly to individuals and families in need. This impact is immeasurable as the meals only speak to one aspect of the support provided. When major community members such as RWJBH demonstrate their care and concern for their community, it goes beyond simply the services provided. It creates a true sense of community and a culture of service that permeates all aspects of our city.

Additionally, without the financial support that RWJBH has provided our Campus Kitchen and our Food Pantry, we would not be able to sustain our operations and outreach. The support shows our clients and our student volunteers a model of social responsibility for a pillar of our community.

We thank RWJBH emphatically for their unwavering support. Jersey City and the health and welfare of its citizens cannot thrive without our institutions leading the way.

Best,

Mr. Erich Sekel
Director of Community Service
Saint Peter's University
2641 Kennedy Blvd.
Jersey City, NJ 07306
(201) 761-7395