Robert Wood Johnson University Hospital Hamilton (RWJUH) Hamilton is proud to celebrate 50 years of caring for the surrounding community. When the hospital was established in 1971, surrounded by corn fields, the institution was named Hamilton Hospital. Now, a half-century later, the hospital is nationally recognized for its exceptional medical care, patient satisfaction, and continued commitment to promote, preserve and restore the health of the community it serves. We proudly celebrate our 50th year with a significant milestone in nursing at RWJUH Hamilton. Our dedicated team has received nursing's most prestigious honor—Magnet® recognition by the American Nurses Credentialing Center. Only 8 percent of hospitals nationwide have achieved this distinction.
